(YOUNGSTOWN - June 12, 2009) – Austintown Medical Park will hold a Summer Health and Safety Fair on Saturday, June 27, 2009 from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. at 20 Ohltown Road, Austintown. The free community event is open to all ages and features health screenings, displays, food, door prizes and other activities.

Free screenings include bone density, stroke, blood pressure, hearing, visual acuity, and body mass index. Lab testing will be offered for $10. Screening mammograms will also be available, so please be sure to bring your insurance card and photo ID. “Ask the Doc” staffed by Forum Health physicians, chair massages and children’s Identi-kits by Austintown Police Department are among the many activities. Displays feature Austintown Rehabilitation Services, Austintown Imaging Center, Austintown Immediate Care, WorkMED and Forum Health’s Dental Services, Orthopedics, Pediatric Rehabilitation Services, Surgery, Center for Breast Health, Nutritional Services and Family Practice Center.

Be sure to bring the kids’ bicycles so they can enjoy the bicycle agility and safety course. There will also be face painting, snow cones, cotton candy and clowns. The Austintown Fire Department, the Austintown Police Department canine unit, and Lane Lifetrans Ambulance will participate.

A Chinese auction with prizes and gift certificates donated by local businesses will benefit Make-A-Wish Foundation and Harvest for Hunger. Door prizes include two free health risk appraisals with a complete physical and several gift baskets.
